This is his duty. He fails in the most important obligation of his citizenship if he willfully omits to cast his ballot. It is only the hermit who lives so apart from men as to have no share in the active government of a municipal aggregate.

All other men are part and parcel of a corporation whose functions concern them despite themselves. It is easy enough to say, as many do, that politics are rotten and that politicians and office-holders are interested and mercenary seekers after spoils, whose flagrant misdeeds are shared by the voters who elect them. If this is so, it is a part of the citizens to correct all this, and the ballot is the lever with which to pry this incubus out. The ballot is the instrument of reform and is the indorsement of rectitude.

To vote to-morrow is a duty which the citizen owes to himself, to his family, to his fellow-citizens. To neglect it is cul pable indolence or ignorance. Go to the polls and do your duty like a man and like an American citizen.

"Finally, I went to Dra McCoy and Wildman and found I had catarrh. They removed four pieces of polypus from my nose. One plece was as bug as my tunnb. Under their treatment and following their advice carefully I began to improve steadily, and everybody who know me, including the men in the shop, noticed the change in me. Now I dan breath through my nose free y I can sleep six or seven with pains I can straighten myself out like an athleter. My complexion, as you can see, is healthy. I have gained eight or ten pounds and my fish had and healthy. My threat inuit aers any more, and I feel ten years younger than I did when I went to Dra.
